

Not "Relaxation"

Dim-out Is Still Effective
Where Lights May Be Seen At Sea

Relaxation is not the word that the State of Maine intends to use in interpreting the new dimout regulations now in effect along the coast of Maine from Kittery to Eastport, says Civilian Defense Director F. H. Farnum.

The dimout area is identical with what it has been since Nov. 30, 1942, Col. Farnum said. Lights within that area visible from a certain reference line at sea or seaward of the line will still come under former dimout restrictions which amount to virtual blackout. Only when lights on the shores of bays, coves and estuaries are not visible seaward from the reference line at sea will there be any relaxation of dimout regulations.

The line at sea, established by the Navy, can be used for determining whether or not lights are visible seaward under present dimout regulations. Once the general position of this line is satisfactorily located, by people near the shore, their problem of compliance can be judged quite easily by looking seaward from the position of any window or source of light. When the open sea is in view, from that point, lights must be obscured or reduced in intensity so that no light or reflection from them is visible from any point on the waters of the Atlantic Ocean to the seaward side of the line described in the following paragraph:

"Beginning in Canadian waters at Liberty Point Ledge, Campobello Island, and running thence, in a series of straight lines to West Quoddy Head Lighthouse; to the tip of Boot Head, Lubec; to the tip of Long Point, Western Head, and Cape Wash, Cutler; to the tips of Howard Point, Machiasport, to the southernmost point of the Brothers Islands, to Mistake Island Lighthouse, to the tip of Pond Point on Great Wass Island, to Nash Island Lighthouse, to the tip of Petit Manan Point, Steuben, to the tip of Schoodic Point, Winter Harbor, to Egg Rock Lighthouse in Frenchman Bay, to the tip of Otter Point on Mt. Desert Island, to the eastern end of Sutton Island, to Bass Harbor Head Lighthouse, to the tip of North Point on Swan's Island, to the eastern tip of Stinson Neck, Deer Isle, to Deer Isle Thoroughfare Light on Mark Island, to the southernmost tip of Stimpson's Island, to Bown's Head Light on Vinalhaven Island, to Owl's Head Lighthouse, to Whitehead Lighthouse, to the tip of Mosquito Head, St. George, to Marshall Point Lighthouse, to Franklin Island Lighthouse, to Pemaquid Point Lighthouse, to Ram Island Lighthouse, to the Cuckolds Lighthouse, to Pond Island Lighthouse, to Fuller Rock Lighthouse, to Little Mark Monument Light, to Portland Head Light, to Cape Elizabeth Lighthouse, to Wood Island Lighthouse, to Goat Island Lighthouse, to Cape Neddick Lighthouse."

In the regulations for automotive vehicles the number of driving lights is limited to two. The upper half of the lens of each headlight or driving light in use must be completely obscured by paint or other opaque material. The low beam on headlights is required throughout the entire dimout area.

Under the new regulations industrial and commercial establishments will receive special treatment allowing adequate ventilation.

A District Rally

Boy Scouts Prepare Their Own Supper, and Display Skill At Athletics

Seventy were present at the Rockland district rally of the Boy Scouts of America held at Schofield-White Park Friday night.

Some of the members of the troops prepared their own supper, steaks being passed around to those attending the rally.

A chariot race was won by Troop 202, with Troop 204 in second place. Troop 206 was disqualified by braking. Troop 204 won the antelope race with Troop 206 coming in second and Troop 202 in third place.

The results of the standing broad jump were very close, three teams tying on the first two tries. The third try resulted in Troop 206 leading. There were two flag relay races, resulting as follows: (1) 202, 206, 204 and (2) 202, 204, 206.

Thespian Banquet

High School Group Had Jolly Evening—The New Officers

Alston E. Smith, sponsor, coach and activating spirit of the local Thespian Society.

The crowning event of a most successful season in high school dramatics was the banquet of the National Thespian Society of Rockland High School held recently at The Copper Kettle.

At the beautifully decorated tables, arranged in the form of the Thespian "T" were seated 30 members of the society.

President Milton Wooster served as master of ceremonies introducing the speakers, Douglas Perry, Barbara Wood and Alston E. Smith, troupe sponsor. An interesting feature was the induction of the new officers: Ralvan Welker, president; Byron Keene, vice president; Betty Holmes, secretary; Christine Newhall, treasurer and Louise Veazie, historian.

In a long list of citations by Mr. Smith, Douglas Perry was named best Thespian for 1942-43 and Milton Wooster second. Douglas Perry, assisted by Joseph Emery Sr. directed the group singing accompanied by Miss Haverer at the piano.

Following the banquet the members adjourned to Strand Theatre through the courtesy of the management.

Troop 204.

The judges were: Cleveland Sleeper, Jr., committeeman of Troop 206; Lloyd E. Daniels, committeeman of Troop 203, and Charles D. Jilison, committeeman of Troop 202. John A. Perry, first mate of Troop 209-A, was the starter. A capture of the flag game was halted on account of darkness. Troop No. 203 was not represented at the rally. Commissioner H. C. Cowan, Sr., was master of ceremonies.

Scoutmasters are: Harold W. Whitehill, 202; Albert D. Mills, Sr., 204 and Joseph E. Blaisdell, 206. Mr. Blaisdell was represented by Horatio C. Cowan, Jr., junior assistant scoutmaster.

[EDITORIAL]

Somehow we wish we could place more confidence in those South American Republics on which we have spent so much money and devoted so much effort in the pursuit of the "good neighbor" policy. A great deal of excitement was caused at the week-end, by a revolution which resulted in the overthrow of President Castillo. This move was immediately accepted in this country as a blow to the Axis, but radio commentators Sunday night placed quite a different construction upon it. Argentina's professed neutrality has always borne a decidedly Axis aspect and that country has been the hotbed of the Allied Nations' foes. It is not quite clear yet what attitude the new government will adopt, for it is no easy matter to read the changeable South American mind. The correct thing to do seems to be the continued drubbing of the Axis powers without reference to what some of our doubtful neighbors are doing.

Commencement exercises have already been held by some of the Knox County High Schools, and that age-old problem, "after graduation, what?" is being settled anew. This year the circumstances are somewhat different. There is the war to consider, and youths who have reached the age of 18 find themselves eligible to the draft, which is still calling relentlessly upon our man-power. And in this respect the feminine element is not being denied. Employment offers its embracing arms everywhere and there is no reasonable excuse for young men, particularly, to be planning a summer of idleness and ease. The picture may not be such a pleasant one for the graduates to consider, but the substitute spells—Patriotism.

The arrival of another large contingent of American airmen at a British port bodes no good to the countries which are for the moment controlling so much of Europe. America has built many thousands of planes the past year, and has educated many thousands of young airmen. The forces already on duty in the various corners of the world are giving a mighty fine account of themselves, and the rapidly augmenting contingents are destined to spread further dismay in the already terrorized countries.

Dr. Clinton A. Clauson, State administrator for War Savings, announces that the June quota for Maine, in Series E War Bonds, is $4,000,000. "and we aim," said he, "to exceed it by the widest possible margin."

Which, of course, the good old reliable Pine Tree State will proceed to do. Knox County's quota is $85,920, and Lincoln County's is $37,400.

In this perhaps the last lull before the bursting of the great storms of the new summer it is no easier than it has been in the past for lay opinion to estimate the true relative strength of the immense forces now grimly marshaled against each other. That a decisive trial is coming seems quite certain. In Russia, in the Mediterranean, around the western fringes of the Hitler "fortress," at sea, in the air over Germany and even on the approaches to Japan, military issues have been drawn which cannot be suspended or evaded. That the power of the Axis as a whole has been slowly deteriorating and the combined strength of the forces of freedom as steadily rising is now evident. But whether these two lines of effective military force have actually met and crossed is much more difficult to guess. This Summer holds the answer.

The immense distances which the Allies must overcome are still the great weakness in their position. The United Nations have largely won the battle of production. They are building the planes, weapons, ships and armies; they must still bring them to bear. Some surpluses of strength are beginning to appear for offensive operations. Together we have accumulated the air power which is devastating western Germany while, at the same time, building up a sufficient air force in the Pacific to halt the Japanese advance and perhaps to open the way for some real offensive counter-attacks. But we have also learned that air power, terrible as it is, is not enough by itself. The over-all Allied superiority is still not very great; the massing of the ground armies for which the air will open the way is a slow and difficult business. The true balance of strength at the moment between the Axis and the free world may be fairly close.

It means that the struggle this Summer will probably be a very bitter and bloody one. One must be prepared for perhaps heavy reverses. But beyond the material balance there is one great imponderable now clearly on the Allied side. The Axis can no longer hope for final victory; the tortured and necessitous peoples which it rules can look for nothing now except a desperate rear-guard fight, which sooner or later must end in failure. The future is now ours—if we fight for it. And that is a fact of overwhelming military importance.

The Gas Shortage

Director Parton Gives Our Representative a Clear and Concise Report of the Situation

May 25 Representative Margaret Chase Smith wrote to the Petroleum Administration for War to see what she could learn about the gas and oil situation. The following reply from J. R. Parton, Director of Transportation, will interest many readers.

The East Coast shortage of petroleum products resulted directly from the withdrawal of tankers upon which this region was almost wholly dependent for its petroleum supply. To counteract this, we have been engaged constantly, along with the other Government agencies involved, in carrying out an enormous program to substitute overland transportation for the tank ships shifted to other service or lost by enemy action.

This task has called for a vast re-arrangement in the use of existing transportation facilities and for the construction of new facilities to serve the East Coast delivery of petroleum products. Thus far, the inland and overland movements of petroleum to the east have increased from approximately 50,000 barrels a day before the declaration of the national emergency to approximately 1,200,000 barrels a day at the present time.

We are continuing to press to attain the maximum of efficiency in the utilization of all of the available transportation facilities including pipe lines, barges, tank cars, and tank trucks, and we hope that by next Winter we shall be moving in excess of 1,400,000 barrels of oil into the shortage area every day.

During the Winter of 1943-1944, it is anticipated that we shall be able to supply the Army, Navy, and Lend-Lease requirements, as well as the minimum essential civilian demands for gasoline and heating oils. However, it should be stressed that our petroleum stocks on the Atlantic seaboard are today at an all-time low, and it is imperative that they be built back to levels that will adequately safeguard the essential petroleum requirements of next Winter both domestically and for offshore shipment to the fighting fronts. Because of these factors, we cannot at this time anticipate any relaxation in the present restrictions on gasoline and heating oil consumption.

The original purpose of gasoline rationing was to conserve the nation's rubber supply. The more drastic rationing of gasoline on the East Coast, as related to the rest of the country, is due entirely to insufficient transportation facilities.

While everything possible is being done to increase the amount of petroleum products available for civilian consumption, the fact remains that military requirements must be met first. Pending the time when we can relax civilian consumption restrictions, the Petroleum Administration asks the continued co-operation of the public in using only the necessary minimum amounts of petroleum products. We should all remember that every gallon of gasoline saved in non-essential driving means an extra gallon available on the East coast for offshore shipment to the fighting fronts.

At present, there is no substantial movement of gasoline from the United States to Canada. More than 90 percent of the gasoline consumed in Canada is produced by Canadian refineries, which are engaged in producing vital war products. The crude oil processed at these Canadian plants is obtained both from local production and from the United States and South American oil producing areas. Part of the crude oil from these outside sources is transported in Canadian tankers, the balance in tankers of the Allied Nations.

We now have under consideration a proposal for the construction of a combination 10-inch and 8-inch pipe line from Albany to Boston to tie into an existing New England line upon reversal at West Boylston, Mass. The line, if built, would be fed by tank car movements from the west into Albany.

This operation could also be supported in season by the New York State Barge Canal movements from the west and Hudson River movements from the New York City area. A 10-inch line over this course would have capacity of 60,000 barrels per day of gasoline

Don't the weeds love the sun!—Ed. Pointer in the Boston Globe.

How would anybody know, this season?

Our Waldoboro correspondent, Isabel M. Labe writes:

"A short article in the Good Housekeeping Magazine had this heading: 'Eaglets work while their fathers fly.' It was headed by a picture of the children seated around a table. One of the little tots was Miss Barbara Nicholson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, formerly of this town. These eager fledglings (their fathers are all officers in the Army Air Forces at Miami Beach) already are trying their wings at war work on the ground. At their weekly meetings they make bids for Red Cross baskets, rag dolls for the Children's Service Bureau, tray favors for hospitalized soldiers. The Eaglets Club, organized by Helen Stone, wife of Major David F. Stone, frees mothers for war work of their own."

There's a lot of talk about a "third term." Personally, I don't like a third term for a Maine Governor any better than I did a third (or do a fourth) term for a President.—"B. E. E." in the Houlton Pioneer-Times.

But it is worth remembering that three terms for a governor total only six years, while four for a President would total 16.

There is said to be some over a thousand newspaper men employed by the government for the purpose of preparing propaganda. We are surprised that there aren't more judging from the bulletins that go into our wastebasket every mail.—Bridgton News.

Yes, I know, for I have a wastebasket three feet tall, and it has to be dumped every day. But maybe they don't write Spring poems over where Editor Shorey lives.

A family at West Meadows wanted very much to go on a picnic Sunday, but the better half was too conscientious to use the car for pleasure driving. But the family had a picnic just the same. Loaded up the wheelbarrow with paraphernalia and trundled away to a convenient spot. "Doty" the insurance girl, will tell you all about it.

Opportunity came my way Friday to accompany a Rockland man to Augusta whither he went on strictly official business. We were perfectly amazed at the signs of agricultural activity along the way. Large gardens and small gardens, old gardens and new gardens were everywhere in evidence, and judging from the amount of new soil turned up the residents of Maine are taking very seriously the demand for increased farm production. The novice at farming will find long and busy hours ahead of him, but with favorable weather, and not too much activity on the part of insects, they will be richly rewarded and find their table budget greatly reduced.

We were interested to see what effect the gas restrictions was having upon motor traffic. Between the outskirts of Augusta and Main street Rockland, coming home, we counted 71 cars of all types. But for a distance of 20 miles we failed to see a single car in motion.

What a pity that pleasure riding has to be banned at this season of the year, what with the green fields and the green foliage in its myriad shades. The great outdoors will never look prettier than it does today, except possibly in October when time and frosts have transformed the leaves into a magnificent panorama of red and gold.

Charles Heath of Union turned his old white horse out to pasture the other day, and a little later was surprised to see two white animals there. Investigation revealed that one of them was an albino moose standing the other side of the fence talking things over with the white horse. The moose looked Charles over very calmly and then trotted away. Bertha Bryant, Union correspondent, gives me the story.

defense of our country. There will also be motion pictures showing actual fighting on the various battle fronts and the devastation brought about by bombing and shell fire.

An invitation is extended to all residents of Spruce Head and nearby communities to attend this important meeting.

Strand Theater, starting Wednesday will go on its Summer time schedule, with matinee at 2.00, evenings at 6.45 and 8.45, Sundays shows will be 3.45-6.45 and 8.45. When long shows are shown any change in time will be carried in the Strand advertisement in this paper.

Book Review (By K. S. F.)

"Having Wonderful Crime." Jake Helene and John J. Malone. Author Craig Rice. Published by Simon and Schuster, New York.

When one confesses this book to be a typical "Craig Rice field day," what more can readers who know and thrill over his book ask?

A New York vacation. Bride, bridegroom, bridegroom's S.O.S. lawyer, murder charge and what have you? Here we get a new formula not found in other stories of like nature.

It's a composite of several ingenious writers' theories, but new alive thrillers to cope with. One starts a book that Craig Rice hands to the public and then presto one is lost to all the world, except this one book.

Free Men of America. Author Zeff-Davis Publishing Co. Esquivel Padilla. Publishers, Zeff-Davis Publishing Co.

This is an Alliance Book, and most fortunate it is that the Americas are not united in the timely resolve to defend, against all aggressions, our continental doctrine of equality, of law, of mutual respect and decorum.

That the Americas are marching rapidly to their destiny, and that destiny is union, is the basic theme for this opportune and inspiring treatment of a subject every thinking man and woman is deeply interested in.

Dr. Padella gives interesting and vital highlights—past and present, with an epic forecast for the future as seen through the eyes of this eminent Latin American.

With comparisons of our abolition of slavery and the struggles of the Latin Americas to throw off the binding yoke imposed by the Spanish conquerors; the first after long and bloody war; the second much later and fortunately through generally peaceful means. He confesses that our Pan-Americanism has outmoded the Monroe Doctrine.

The democratic ideals will further the unity of the Americas. Vast opportunities are pointed out for hemisphere democracy, North America, Mexico and South America as good neighbors can be the mightiest force for a post-war world.

The role of the new world in the coming era is clearly set forth by this brilliant and scholarly thinker, who is the Mexican Secretary of Foreign Affairs. What greater outcome of this second World War could be asked for?

How Women of Rockland Can Aid Their Family Welfare

"Now that food buying habits changed because of wartime conditions," says Albert E. MacPhail of Rockland Sales & Service, local appliance dealer, "the women of Rockland and vicinity can make important contributions to America and their own family welfare by following simple food-keeping rules which are given in a new, free Wartime Suggestions Booklet published by Frigidaire Division of General Motors.

"For example, many women in Rockland, in order to make their meat rationing coupons go further, are buying so-called variety meats that they never used before—sweetbreads, brains, hearts, kidneys and liver. Also, due to restricted store deliveries and fewer shopping trips to save gasoline, most women now buy a week's supply of meat at a time so they want to know: How long will these meats keep? What kinds keep best? Should they be frozen?"

Helpful Tips on Meat

The 36-page Wartime Suggestions Booklet includes a section on meat keeping. The home economists and women's magazine editors who helped Frigidaire prepare the booklet agree that variety meats keep best when frozen and they should be placed in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator as soon as the housewife reaches home. Otherwise, it is necessary to cook them within 24 hours after the purchase.

How To Freeze

Simple rules on How To Freeze Meats are also found in this timely section of the Wartime Suggestions Booklet. According to Mr. MacPhail, "The meat should be wrapped in wax paper and placed in the ice tray, (individual portions should be separated with wax paper to prevent freezing together).

To freeze quickly, the tray should be placed on the bottom shelf of the freezer and the cold control turned to the fastest freezing point. For continued storage after freezing, the control should be reset to a colder than normal position. The meat should be kept in the freezer until time to use it. Meat should never be refrozen after thawing."

Four Million Booklets

This meat information is typical of the authoritative and timely Wartime Suggestions which are classified in this book for quick reference. The keen interest of people everywhere in this type of information is shown by the fact that over 4 million booklets have already been required to meet nationwide demand.

The Wartime Suggestions, including tested ration-wise recipes, apply to all refrigerators regardless of make. Free copies of the 36-page booklet are available at the Rockland Sales & Service, 445 Main street, Rockland.

Nation's Grangers

A Grange in New York, Pittsford, No. 425, gets into the limelight because of its last meeting, at which time 65 Silver Star certificates were awarded to members, indicating that each one had rounded out 25 years of continuous membership and activity. Quite an elaborate ceremony was carried out, and special recognition was given to Stewart A. Canfield, who has held the position of secretary of Pittsford Grange for an even 40 years on a stretch and still occupies that important chair in Grange meetings.

More than ordinary Grange interest attaches to the fact that Louis J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, former National Master, has been re-elected president of the Ohio State Council of Churches, following his past year's services in that responsible position. Re-election in this Ohio organization is unusual, and the action just taken is a fine commentary on Mr. Taber's leadership ability, as well as a tribute to his wide religious experience and close contact with the various organization groups of the Buckeye State.

Among the most active Grange members in New York State should be included Mrs. Olive S. Dean of Batavia, who for more than 30 years continuously has held her present position as treasurer of Genesee County Pomona. When she was 16 years old she joined North Alexander Grange, and now realizes that that was 67 years ago.

Pennsylvania Grange meetings are wrestling with the question of so amending rural school laws that the older children in farm families may assist on seasonal farm work without jeopardizing attendance requirements, which are new very stringent in the Keystone State. With the danger of food shortage and the increasing scarcity of farm labor both staring the Pennsylvania farmer in the face, about the only alternative is more student labor, but here he comes up against prohibitive state laws. Another school problem being widely discussed in Pennsylvania Granges is the difficulty in maintaining the teaching force in many fourth class school districts. Many teachers are leaving for the high wages of defense industries; while city and village districts are drawing away the most competent rural teachers—all creating a rural school problem of serious magnitude.

What the people of a small rural town can do to help win the war when they all put their shoulders to the wheel and have a leader, finds new illustration in the case of a little Massachusetts town, where the scrap collection under Grange auspices brought from its hiding place more than 100 tons of scrap. Quick sale of the accumulation was made, and as the result of such Grange effort a mortgage of nearly $600 on the Grange hall was completely wiped out. A merry mortgage-burning evening resulted, and before it was over the Grange voted to start a new scrap drive, even though it appeared that their small town had been pretty thoroughly cleaned up in the first drive.

Considerable attention was occasioned by the fact the Vice-President Henry A. Wallace recently paid a day's visit to the Columbus headquarters of the Ohio State Grange and there met many of the Buckeye State leaders, including State Master Joseph W. Fichter, State Secretary John Cunningham and the entire office force of the Columbus group. In the latter headquarters all the activities of the Ohio State Grange—fraternal, educational, business and insurance—are centered and are carried forward on a very extensive scale. State Master Fichter heads up all these activities and in consequence is one of the busiest men in the Buckeye State.

Some observance of Mother's Day every year is held in nearly every one of the 8000 Granges in the United States.

Limes spoil easily. Do not buy more than are needed immediately. Store in a cool, dry place or in a covered container in the refrigerator. If limes or lemons are run under hot water just before cutting, the juice is more easily extracted.

IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
Ruth L. Rogers, Librarian
Every week-day, 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

A little library, growing larger every year, is an honorable part of a man's history. It is a man's duty to have books. A library is not a luxury, but one of the necessities of life.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Vacation time is here again. What better way to spend those warm days than either at your Public Library or with a good book in some shady nook.

The Vacation Reading Club for boys and girls will start Monday, June 7th at 10 o'clock. Boys and girls from the third grade to the eighth are invited to join. The Club this year is to be a contest between the Army and the Navy. Enlistments will start at 10 o'clock Monday morning. You may sign up with which ever side you wish. Promotions will be made according to books read. Come in Monday morning and start your reading for the Summer.

New books added to the library shelves during the month:

Last Man Off Wake Island, by L. J. Bayler.

Lt. Col. Walter L. J. Bayler is a fighting man in the United States Marines. An eyewitness account of Wake, Midway and Guadalcanal by the only man who has fought on all three. When he returned, he brought with him complete notes on his work and the war, and a diary. We have had accounts of the attacks on Midway, we have had stories of the Marines on Guadalcanal, but we have had no first hand accounts of the heroic and impossible defense of Wake Island. This is a book filled with the exciting moments of one who has faced Japanese bullets, months at a time, and who yet feels that its just part of the life of a fighting Marine, and, of course, an honor as unique as his own experiences to have been enabled to fight his country's enemies in so many different places.

We Thought We Heard the Angles Sing, by Lt. James C. Whittaker. The complete, inspiring story of the ordeal and rescue of those who were with Eddie Rickenbacker on the plane lost in the Pacific. Lt. Whittaker was the only member of the party who kept a diary, the basis of this book together with the recollections of his fellow members. Here is the story of how men refused to give up despite hardships and dangers, and how, almost miraculously, they finally won their reprieve from death.

Canning, Preserving and Jelly Making, by Janet M. Hill. Because war conditions have made canning and preserving an important feature of household economy, and because there have been many changes due to shortages and rationing, this book has been revised and brought up to date. A comprehensive handbook, invaluable for wartime use.

Come in, by Robert Frost. From all of Frost's volumes, Louis Untermeyer has chosen over eighty poems which represent the most famous and popular work of America's greatest poet. Mr. Untermeyer's biographical introduction, contains new information and is the most up-to-date account of the poet available.

Mr. Lincoln's Wife, by Anne Colver, is an understanding and sympathetic portrayal of Mary Todd as she really was. She was the most gossiped about woman in Washington. She was written about, photographed, interviewed and criticized. She married Mr. Lincoln because she loved him and because she felt he needed her, and, in spite of everything, she never stopped loving him. Though presented in the form of a novel, the story is based pretty much on facts.

The Ship, by C. S. Forester. The heroic tale of a few hours in the life of a British light cruiser in the Mediterranean in World War II, and of the men on it. Though the "Artemis" part of a cruiser for escorting a vital British convoy to Malta, is hit twice, and crew, the British disperse a superior Italian force through sheer courage "The Ship" shows the characters of men on the "Artemis," their actual thoughts and emotions as human beings during the battle, and gives an amazingly clear picture of the mechanics of a modern warship.

The Squad Goes Out, by Robert Greenwood.

Bermondsey, known to Londoners as the slum section of the city, forms the background for this heart-warming novel. During the blitz of 1940, it was this district upon which the Nazi bombers concentrated as their chief target, and, each time, the A. E. F. squadrons swung into action. It is about the members of one of these squads that Robert Greenwood writes, and his novel proves that what London may lack in the social graces, it certainly makes up in every genuine, likeable quality of tenderness, humor and courage.

Kate Fennigate, by Booth Tarkington, is the story of a remarkable woman, who from girlhood was destined to play an important role in the lives of men. Wise and a born manager, Kate dedicates her life to the furtherance of the careers of a succession of men, first her ne'er do well and brilliant father, then Luke Spear, engineer with the Roe Metal Products Company, then her cousin and husband, Ames Lanning. A book that women in particular will enjoy.

The Last Days of Sevastopol, by Boris Voytekhov.

The story of the terrifying yet inspiring last three weeks of the siege of Sevastopol in the Summer of 1942, told by a Russian journalist who was there then and who left on the last ship out. It is a vivid, unforgettable picture of all that happened to the defenders, of the suffering, the terror, the shock and pain, together with the steadfastness and iron will of the people, the soldiers and the sailors.

Combined Operation: the official story of the Commandos.

In the actual words of the men who took part in these daring operations, Hilary St. George Saunders, describes the efficiency, courage and non-chalance of these heroes of the Army, Navy, and Air forces, the complete story of combined operation activities since the beginning of the Commandos.

Journey Among Warriors, by Eve Curie.

This is the story of Eve Curie's trip for Free France to the farling frontiers of battle. From France to England, New York to Africa, to Iran, to Moscow, to China, to India; and her conversations with such men as Chiang Kai-Shek; Gandhi Cripps and Warvel. Out of her trip, the author has brought a document, human and inspiring.

"QUICK" BREAD IS A FAVORITE

Unwillingness of homemakers to spend red stamps for shortening when they are needed for buying meats has made that favorite—quick bread—practically a wartime "casualty." But quick bread is the kind the defense worker needs. Delights in finding in his or her lunchbox to relieve the monotony of dry sandwiches from day to day. If a quickly-made bread costs no stamps for shortening, yet uses some sugar, it is good value, when two loaves are produced.

WHOLE WHEAT PEANUT BREAD: three cups sifted whole wheat flour; one and one-half cups sifted white flour; two teaspoons salt; one teaspoon soda; three teaspoons baking powder; one cup sugar; seven-eighths cup evaporated milk mixed with seven-eighths cup water and two tablespoons vinegar; one cup raisins and one cup peanuts, both chopped. Mix and sift dry ingredients; blend in soured milk, raisins and nuts. Pour batter into two oiled loaf pans 8x5. Preheat gas oven to 325 degrees Fahrenheit; use but one rack, set toward lower part of oven; place the loaves on it with space between for good circulation; then they will bake slowly and therefore evenly throughout during the 50 minute baking period.

The Rotary Club
Alfred Van Baalen Takes Members On a Trip To Mexico

Alfred Van Baalen of the Van Baalen, Helbrun & Co., was guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting at Hotel Rockland Friday. He told of the difficulties in securing material for the factory and predicted shortages would be acute before the end of this year. He gave some interesting details of a trip to Mexico City and of experiences in buying material from fabric mills in that locality.

Mr. Van Baalen told of the manufacture of rain coats for children, which are carrying the name of "State of Maine Rainwear" and which are being advertised nationally. In closing his address he expressed a desire to talk over with leading citizens a plan he has in mind for the development of the City of Rockland. The speaker was introduced by Joseph W. Robinson, program chairman for June.

President Maurice P. Lovejoy appointed Herbert C. Newbegin, Theodore S. Bird and Lloyd E. Daniels as a committee to have general charge of the Troop of Boy Scouts at the High School, which is sponsored by the club.

Gilbert Harmon of the Camden Club was a visitor and guests of members were: Orrin V. Drew of Vinalhaven, Edward Panaria of Camden, Herman M. Hart, Dana Cummings and Raymond Dean of Rockland. Fifty-eight were present.

Lieut. Wesley N. Wasgatt, on duty at a mid-Western hospital, who with his family, is spending a short furlough in Rockland, was present at the meeting and gave a short talk covering some of his experiences at the hospital. Lieut. Wasgatt is a "service member" of the club.

Cummings, program chairman for June, gave an interesting resume of the activities of Moses Greenleaf, one of Maine's leading pioneers, who was a prime mover for the separation of the District of Maine from the State of Massachusetts.

Greenleaf proposed a waterway from Moosehead Lake to Sebomack; discovered slate at Monson; started first Masonic lodge in Piscataquis County and promoted Maine's first railroad.

Greenleaf was a judge and a surveyor and lived from 1777 to 1834. Mr. Hempstead quoted from a book entitled, "Moses Greenleaf, Maine's First Map Maker," by Edgar Crosby Smith, published in 1932. A copy of the book is in the Rockland Public Library.

The Memory Man
Gives Credit To a Thomaston Musician and Ellsworth Sea Captain

(By Iree Member)

Aaron A. Clark of Thomaston, (who, by the way is writing songs at a rate that bids fair to equal the record set by his sire, the late lamented Luther A. Clark) sends me a batch of new songs every so often and I get quite a kick by giving them the once over. Frankly, I marvel that any person can set to music most of the lyrics (*) submitted to Aaron.

Perhaps I am very, very old fashioned but I can't see any sense, rhyme or reason to most of the trash composed (?) and sent him for musical settings, but, like a good soldier, Aaron earns his stipend by setting the trash to music—of a "sort" and, I hasten to add, it is the only "sort" that can be written to such beastly lyrics and I marvel at the strength of character possessed by any writer who can stand up under the strain of setting such lyrics to any sort of music. I sometimes wonder that we don't have more than we do. Of one thing I am certain—the music of today doesn't help us to be calm, charitable and peaceful!

However, once in a while a good song is written and one such came to me in a batch of songs just received from Aaron. It was written by two local musicians—Ruth Sanborn and Doris L. Brewster of Camden.

The title is "Routin' Tootin' Son-Of-A-Gun" and the song is well written and a clean, snappy little war song. The words are cleverly conceived and written and the rhyming and metre are correctly done, and the melody by Ruth Sanborn is catchy and tuneful and the words and music "fit" like a glove.

All in all it is a snappy little song and I am sure that if it could be sung by Eddie Cantor, or some other popular radio star, it would catch the public fancy and have a big sale. Nice little song and Aaron shows in the piano accompaniment he has written that he is okay doing when he has some material to work with. Good job, Aaron. Congratulations to the Brewster-Sanborn song team.

Now while dishing out credit with a lavish hand let's change from music to the sea. One of my valued correspondents wants due credit given to Captain Freeman Closson of Ellsworth. The friend who sent the data to me was an eye witness, in fact was a member of the party on the yacht "White Heather" chartered for Summer cruising by Mr. Elbeek of Ohio, and captained by Capt. Closson. Here is what my correspondent says, and he calls the incident, "One Heroic Rescue."

"We were nearing Camden. Strong N.W. breeze was very fitful, coming in fierce gusts down over the Camden mountains. Saw a small sailboat coming from the inner harbor. On board were five persons and a large dog. We were about one half mile from the entrance to the harbor when the small boat took one extra strong "puff" which capsized her. It was about 1.30 p. m., and at that hour no one was near. Capt. Closson saw her plight and told us to stand "off and on" while he worked like (something) and was quickly in the little 12-foot dinghy and pulling mightily for the capsized boat.

He reached the scene in about 20 minutes and found the former occupants of the boat exhausted and nearly drowned by the choppy sea which buried them from sight when the water rushed over them. The dog was swimming easily but the half drowned people insisted that the dog be rescued first. Capt. "Freem" pulled the dog in then succeeded in getting the five people into the boat. It required great strength as the victims were helpless and a dead weight, but, "Freem" did it—God knows how!

"Just imagine, Iree, five people and a big collie dog (and Capt. Closson!) packed into a 12-foot dinghy! Well, after Captain Freem had them all safe, someone at the Camden Yacht Club saw the capsized boat and came to the rescue in a power boat and, with much difficulty, got them, dog and all, on board and took them to shore."

My correspondent is loud in his praise of Capt. Closson and feels that, while the power boat rescuing party is due much credit for their part in the rescue Capt. Closson should have mention made of the part he played in the rescue. "Freem" is just the sort to do a rescue job and then fade out of the picture—so says my correspondent. We trust this recital of fact will give Capt. Closson the credit he so justly deserved.

GRANGE CORNER
News items from all of the Patrons of Husbandry are welcomed here.

Owing to the gas situation, Good Will Grange will hold meetings every two weeks instead of weekly as has been the custom. The next meeting will be June 17.

The Circle of Weymouth Grange, Thomaston meets Wednesday with dinner at noon. On the committee are Mrs. Gertrude Hahn, Mrs. Dora Maxcy and Mrs. Estelle Newbert.

As the executive committee of Limerock Valley Pomona Grange has been unable to get convenient transportation for the meeting at North Haven next Saturday, the session will be postponed.

Pleasant Valley Grange meets today in Grand Army Hall, with game party at 2 o'clock; supper at 6 o'clock. A memorial service will constitute the evening's program, and the service flag will be re-dedicated.

Mr. Crawford at one time was a familiar figure on the race tracks of fairs in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and this State, and probably one of the best known horses which he owned and drove was Bessie B. Sire. This interest in races he kept up during his entire life, and it was his delight to attend the races at neighboring fairs.

For years he was associated in the lumber business with Crawford and Orbeton of this town, and upon the death of George Orbeton, worked with the Charles Starrett Lumber Co. He retired from active work about 17 years ago.

Mr. Crawford was born in Nobleboro, son of James and Jane (Bogley) Crawford, and came to this town with the family when he was ten years old.

Teague-Wyllie
Virginia Ann Wyllie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester O. Wyllie, became the bride of Sgt. Robert E. Teague at a pretty wedding solemnized at the Baptist Church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Aubrey S. Bishop officiated, using the impressive double ring service.

The bride was gowned in a floor-length white taffeta of princess style, short full sleeves and sweetheart neck, her trailing veil of rayon net caught at the head with lilies of the valley, in a coronet. Her arm bouquet was white carnations tied with a white bow, and her accessories were white.

Mrs. Alfred H. Wyllie of North Warren, her sister-in-law, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a gown of yellow permanent finish organza, with bouffant skirt, and short sleeves, her arm bouquet of bronze carnations tied with a yellow ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Jordan of Thomaston and Augusta, Miss Belle Webb of Winthrop, Mrs. Kendall Orff of Cushing, and Miss Ruth Nichols of Portland, cousin of the bride.

Miss Jordan wore pink chiffon with sash and short sleeves; Miss Webb was dressed in pink net over taffeta, with blue bow trim; their arm bouquets of pink larkspur tied with pink. Miss Orff wore light blue flowered chiffon with sweetheart neck, and carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze snapdragons.

Miss Nichols was dressed in light blue organza with lace insets, arm bouquet of bronze snapdragons.

Donna Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers of Thomaston, was flower girl. Wearing a dress of pink taffeta with tieback and lace at the neck, she carried a basket of lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots, scattering apple blossom petals as she went up the aisle.

The best man was Arnold Teague of Boothbay, brother of the groom; the ushers were Kendall Orff of Cushing, Maurice Watts, Irving Spear and Robert Wotton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, and the Mendelssohn Wedding March were played by Miss Verna Robinson, who was accompanist for Mrs. Charles Overlock, sister of the groom, as she sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Wyllie, mother of the bride, wore powder blue crepe, her corsage of pink carnations and sweet peas. Her accessories were white.

Mrs. Teague, mother of the groom, was dressed in blue and gold figured rayon jersey, her corsage of Talisman roses and sweet peas. Her accessories were white.

A reception was held after the ceremony and friends and relatives gathered at the Wyllie home still later for a second reception, at which Mrs. Norman Whitehill of Thomaston had charge of the guest book, and refreshments were served by Miss Sisko Lehto of Augusta, and Miss Frances Goodwin, also of Augusta, who dipped punch; and Miss Irene Simmons and Miss Shirley Castner of this town, Miss Claudine Chase of Norridgewock and Miss Barbara Morton of Augusta, who served.

Church decorations of spring flowers and decorations for the home reception were arranged by Mrs. E. V. Oxtom, Mrs. Robert Wotton and Mrs. George Buck.

Going away suit worn by the bride was a two-piece silk dress of lipstick red trimmed with white braid, with which she wore white accessories.

SAVE... Freedom of Worship

How do you pray? Do you speak the words in a prayerbook, or simpler words in your heart? In your congregation do men and women pray side by side, or separately? Do you go to services Sunday . . . or Saturday . . . or every day in the week? Or perhaps your own bedside is the only "pew" from which you've ever said a prayer.

It doesn't matter. This is America, where you enjoy Freedom of Worship. No one new-orders you to go to Church of any faith other than your own. No one brands you for choosing to go to the Church of your particular faith.

There are people in conquered countries who would now be awed by that fact. There are children in fascist lands who are being taught to worship false gods, and who don't know what the Churches of their fathers looked like, before they were destroyed.

Can you picture yourself denied this right, to worship as you please? You'd fight against it, wouldn't you? WELL, THE TIME TO FIGHT IS —NOW! Because one of the things this war is all about is—to guarantee to each and every man, woman and child the right to keep faith with his God, each in his own way. That's one of the most important things our men are dying for in battle: to save Freedom of Worship. Let each of us at home fight to save it too, in the name of those who fight valiantly around the globe.

Banquet In Thomaston Last Night For Championship Athletic Teams

Thomaston High School's commendable habit of winning athletic championships found reaction last night in the complimentary banquet tendered the victorious baseball and basketball players in the commodious dining hall of Masonic Temple. It was a very jolly affair, presided over by Principal Maxcy, whose increasing popularity in Thomaston has been enhanced by his phenomenal success as coach of the baseball team this Spring.

Special guests of the occasion were Postmaster James Connellan and Editor Frank A. Winslow of Rockland, Edw. Lynch, Percy Williams, Forrest Stone, Waino Kangas, Enoch Clark, Roland Morse and Charles Winchenbach.

Lobster stew furnished the piece de resistance for the banquet, flanked by innumerable nice pies, and other accessories. In charge of this nice feast were: Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Elmer Biggers, Mrs. Horace Maxcy, and Mrs. E. F. Lynch, the waitresses being Beverly Kirkpatrick, Jean Crie, Phyllis Hall, Jean Elliot, Erlita Porter, Josephine Mitchell, Jean Cushing and Barbara Sullivan.

Enos Verge and Russell Kelley were spokesmen for the school, the former describing the teams as composed of the finest lot of boys he had ever met "fighting all the way," and the latter expressing the hope that next season's teams would do as well.

Mr. Winslow said it was his proud boast that he had attended more ball games in Thomaston than any Thomaston man. He named the "Tippy" Peenans, Chipper Peabody, Clyde Daniels and Ugham as among the many brilliant players the town has produced.

Postmaster Connellan, long-time coach and long-time athletic fan used as the text for his fine address an article by Ty Cobb in an American magazine, and referred particularly to McNally and Shorten, who were not regulars on the Red Sox team, but whose hard and constant work with it eventually led to their success with the New York Yankees. Connellan left with his keenly interested hearers the lesson of hard work, and the fact that they should not be content with merely winning championships.

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go on one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

Word From Townsend

N. W. Lermond Gets Letter From Old Age Pension Advocate

Knox Arboretum, May 29

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Our Townsend friends will be interested to know that I have just received a personal letter from the Doctor, dated St. Clair Hotel, Chicago, May 20. He writes:

"It is my firm conviction, Mr. Lermond, after years of study of the social ills of our times, that something more than economic doctoring will be required to correct those ills. I believe that there must be a spiritual awakening of the people to the fact that a program of justice based on the Golden Rule will be required before any economic revision of our laws and customs will have a chance of success. . . .

"It is my purpose to contact the leading church heads of all Christian organizations as rapidly as possible and call a convention of their delegates to formulate a program for political action in this country that will have for its outstanding purpose the total elimination of poverty from our nation.

I feel sure that if we can enlist the spiritual leaders behind such a movement that no political organization now in existence could stand against the great uprising of the people demanding a political program based upon justice and brotherhood. Leave spiritual out of the program and no economic plan of reform will succeed. . . .

Not only must economic reforms be based upon and backed by Christian justice and fellowship, but they must be simple, easily understood, and demand nothing but what everybody wants—security for all. . . .

"But look, they all want a sensible tax system. We have it in the Gross Income tax. If we can show by the use of a very small gross income tax at first that its proper disposition among the derelicts of society will immediately be followed by additional prosperity everywhere, it will not be long until big industry will say, 'Let's scrap all other forms of taxation. Our proposal to pay out insurance money to the helpless derelicts of society only will not frighten the big insurance companies. There is no business for them among the derelicts. Big moneyed interests realize that such support is very costly to them. They would like to have the tax load spread to the shoulders of everybody. So would you and I.

I am unalterably opposed to any fixed pension system.

Please study our program and let me hear from you again.

Your well wisher and everybody's well wisher, (Signed) Dr. Francis E. Townsend."

My answer: I have never favored the Doctor's "transaction tax old-age pension system." It seems to me that the same principle applies to pensions for the retired old people, as to pensions for retired school-teachers, postal clerks and other government employees. These are paid by the government, that is to say, indirectly, by the whole people. As we understand, the bill now in committee in Congress, is for a "fixed" pension of $50 or $60 for all persons 60 years of age or over, irrespective of their financial standing. Therefore it cannot be the Townsend measure.

A "program of justice based on the Golden Rule," is just what we want to see—

"A square deal for all."

The right to work and work for all able-bodied men and women between 21 and 60 years of age should be guaranteed.

Yours for humanity,
Norman Wallace Lermond

The Scribblers Club
Members Eat Birthday Cake, Receive Gifts and Win Prizes

The Scribblers Club celebrated its twelfth birthday last night with a party at Wadsworth Inn, Camden. Twelve members sat down to a delicious chicken supper which included a birthday cake. Spring flowers, candles and place cards gave a festive touch to the occasion.

The president, Mrs. Carl O. Borgerson, presented a gift to each member and with each presentation read an original quatrain that gave a clue to the significance of the gift for its particular recipient.

Mrs. E. Carl Moran had charge of the program. In a guessing contest of titles and authors of modern poems Miss Relief A. Nichols and Mrs. Zelma M. Dwinale were a tie for the first place.

Much work has come from the pens of the members during the past year. One has had a book published, another has been made a local member of the Associated Press. Many have written feature articles, stories and poems for publication.

Simmer in hot water 10 minutes and serve with soup. Excellent and nutritious.

Quite a number of flowering plants are attractive to bees either for the pollen or for the sweet food in the nectar. It is well to have bee balm, evening primrose, cotton, anchusa and mallows if you wish the pollen well scattered by the bees. Hollyhocks are a delight to the bees and humming birds as well as butterflies. And you naturally want all these fed well in your garden.

Great heroic feats are accomplished during these dreadful experiences of shipwreck and sinkings. Here is one case off the coast of Scotland. A ship's surgeon was hit and both his legs were broken, but he called men to carry him about and would have no attention given to himself until he had cared for 50 of the wounded. It was 12 hours of constant work for their relief before he would submit to care of his own broken legs.

Aid to Enemy

"Any American who wilfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy. We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service
too. Let us all ask ourselves,
'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?'" — Secretary
Morgenthau.

MAINE IN WASHINGTON

(From the office of Senator Ralph O. Brewster)

Six months ago when Leon Henderson was retired as Price Administrator because of his unpopularity, this column predicted that within six months the country would find that it had gone from bad to worse. In seeking to please and appease everyone, the new administration has more and more unsettled the economy of the country and the hold of the President on the country which is even more serious from the standpoint of those who were thinking in political terms that the sacrifice of Henderson would solve all their problems.

Drying Up The Cow

The effect of these unfortunate regulations may develop in this next year in the shortages of many of the foodstuffs upon which America must depend. Curiously enough these shortages are liable to develop at the very time when these same economic planners are preparing to feed the world out of the steadily diminishing American reserves.

Natural laws have an uncomfortable way of punishing their violators. Perhaps their operation is divine. Certainly no one has a right to expect that farmers will grow crops indefinitely for less than the cost of production or that wholesalers and retailers can pay out day by day more than they take in.

Lumber Supplies

Lumber is more and more a matter of concern to the War Production Board but meanwhile the War Labor Board tends to freeze wages at points that make shippers more attractive and the Office of Price Administration fixes prices that tend to make it difficult to get a new dollar for an old.

The Potato Problem

The potato shortage has brought home the problem of production with dramatic suddenness. No one ever imagined a shortage of potatoes but here it is with potato bootleggers operating in all the larger cities of the East. In Washington the leading morning paper conducted a crusade on the black market in potatoes and all its attendant evils and a grocer was fined $300.00 as an example.

People begin to wonder what this is all about and where this is going to end. The drama will gradually unfold as the year wears on. Jefferson 100 years ago said, "It the government at Washington shall tell us what to plant and when to reap the country will soon want food."

War Mobilization Board

Some centralized direction of our war economy begins to loom over the horizon in accordance with the two-year battle of the Truman Committee. The newly announced War Mobilization Board with Justice Byrnes as Chairman is a long step in this direction and it is to be earnestly hoped that the President will allow it ample power and scope to function in order that he may concentrate on some of the other problems that now press for attention.

REFLECTIONS

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Rugged mountain in the Springtime
Clothed in green so bold—
Covered are your rocks and ledges,
Bare through Winter cold.
Tier by tier arising
From the water's edge
Trees whose rootlets gather
Sustenance from ledge
In the morning sunlight
Shadowed from the East
Mirror Lake reflects
Of green and gold, a feast.
Neath a Springtime sky
Oh, beautiful the changes
As Springtime days go by.

THE KEEPER AND THE LIGHT

(For The Courier-Gazette)
The lighthouse stands on a headland
bold,
Thrust up from the ocean's depths,
The lighthouse keeper is gray and old
But the flashing light she keeps.
The winds may sweep the swirling snow
Throughout the Winter night,
Her lantern burns with a steady glow,
Her faith shines in that light.
On moonlight nights when the sea-
tide sleeps,
When glory falls on reef and ramp,
A ceaseless vigil still she keeps.
This Lady with her Lamp.
The white winged ships in safety sail
On missions near and far,
They know the light will never fail,
'Tis constant as a star.
Each soul is given a light to keep
By Life's tempestuous sea,
Some are careless and others sleep,
But some are a blessing to you and me.

THE SEED

(For The Courier-Gazette)
I planted it with tenderest care,
Seemingly dead, and left it there,
But ever with a watchful eye
And anxious heart, I hovered nigh.
Would there be life in the wee thing,
And what surprise would that life
bring?
I pondered this from day to day
As hidden there secure it lay.
And ever through my thoughts there ran
The haunting words bequeathed to man.
"Except within the ground it lies,
It cannot live unless it dies."
Then, one glad day there came in view
A glorious blossom wet with dew;
And what a marvelous thrill I felt
When o'er the lovely thing I knelt.
That little flower fulfilled its mission;
What we call death is but transition;
This sweet assurance my doubting stilled.
With hope and joy my being filled.

A SONG OF SPRING

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Outside my window every morn
Bird notes are the first sweet sound
Upon the gentle breezes borne—
Sunshine bathes the sleeping hound;
Skyward a motor's rhythmic pound
Reveals a silver aeroplane's wing;
Daily new beauties can be found
By nature lovers—it is Spring!
Blossoms abundantly adorning
The orchard trees make snowy mound
Of fragrant petals—without warning
A gay breeze swirls them to the ground.
The lovely May queen will be crowned;
Merry youngsters laugh and sing,
While early dancing round and round
The flowered May-pole—it is Spring!
Winter's rigor now we scorn,
Our spirits joyously rebound;
In tune with nature we're reborn—
Sweet miracle that does astound!
Farmers plough and till the ground,
And the erstwhile empty swing
Sways to and fro—joy renewed
To happy childhood—it is Spring!

The Ballard School

Three Received Diplomas, But No Graduation Exercises

The Ballard Business School closed Friday. Owing to war conditions and the fact that graduates are scattered, no graduation exercises nor meeting of the alumni association was held this year.

Gregg shorthand awards for June went to Miss Carolyn M. Andrews; 120 words a minute; Miss Phyllis E. Carleton of Rockport, and Miss Doris M. Paterson of Tenant's Harbor, 100 words a minute; and Mrs. Marion B. Smith of Warren and Mrs. Louise T. Rawley of Thomaston, 80 words a minute.
